It's interesting when you look back on your life and see how you've changed. You see the trials that you've gone through. The things that you've done and the things you've been through. You see the people you've met and the relationships you've formed. All of that makes you realize, you're a totally different person. You're on a different path. You realize, you've changed. You've changed because you're experiencing a different life. And, sometimes, you think back and you wonder, "Why did I do that?" Or, "Why did I do that other thing?" You start to wonder, why did I do that? You think back to those days when you were 8 years old. You see how you've changed. And, you wonder, if you had only known then, what you know now.
